In the new era of digitalisation, risk management and internal controls have been evolving to suit the new normal. Analytics can be broadly applied in managing organisations' different risk areas across industries. In this session, Deloitte's Risk Advisory team will share how risk analytics can help empowering organisations' operational efficiency, optimising cost, ensuring compliance, good conduct and safety. We will share our experiences in deep diving into organisations' different business operating processes, discuss the common anomalies practices and improvement areas that analytics can help identify, surpassing traditional approach to enhance organisations' operational efficiency.

In view of the increasing importance of data and technology-driven business landscape, managements have been keen on applying analytics solutions in their organisations, in this webinar, we will also share our experiences in helping organisations to accelerate their journeys on adopting risk analytics.

Speaker(s):*Professionals from Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu
